COLOR KEYING IN ART AND LIVING. Encyclopaedia Britannica Films, 1951. 10 min., sd., color, 35mm.

Summary: A dramatic study of color relationships. Shows by action photography the subtractive nature of pigment mixtures and explains by animation the resulting relative weakness of pigment mixtures. Emphasizes the necessity for "keying" of colors and demonstrates these color relations by art subjects, home decorations, and aspects of everyday life. For junior and senior high school and adult groups.
